II. LAWS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

There shall be the following classification of the Laws of the University :—

(1) Regulation passed by the State Legislature and defining in general the constitution of the University, enumerating its chief organs and authorities, and outlining their main functions and powers.

They shall be made by the Senate either on its own motion, or on the motion of the University Council.

The Senate shall consult the University Council and the Academic Council before taking any Statute into consideration.

All Statutes shall be submitted to the Government for assent with the opinions of the University Council and the Academic Council, and it shall be open to Government to assent or withhold assent or to remit them for further consideration with suggestions of amendment.

Ordinances relating to academic matters shall be left to the initiative of the Academic Council,—all other Ordinances including those relating to administrative matters being left to the initiative of the University Council.

Ordinances passed by the University Council which cannot wait will come into operation from such date as the Council may appoint, but all Ordinances passed by the Council shall be submitted to the Senate at the next meeting of that body for consideration. In the case of Ordinances initiated by the Academic Council, the University Council can only assent, withhold assent, reject or remit for further consideration.

The Senate will consider or cancel Ordinances submitted to it by the University Council under the following conditions:—

(a) The Senate can cancel by a two-thirds majority, or remit for further consideration with suggestions of amendment.

(b) All proposals of Ordinances from the Academic Council in respect of which there is a disagreement between the Academic Council and the University Council (including cases of rejection or withholding of assent by the University Council) shall be submitted to the Senate for consideration. It shall be open to the Senate to assent or withhold assent, but not amend in detail. The Senate's resolution shall then be submitted to Government.

(c) Ordinances which have received the assent of the Senate shall be submitted to the Government for sanction, disallowance or remission for further consideration.

(4) Bye-laws—to be passed by each governing body (regarding matters within its own special jurisdiction) for carrying into effect the provisions of the Regulation, Statutes and Ordinances.

They shall be made by any University Body authorised by Statute or Ordinance to do so.

(It shall be competent for the University to make a contribution out of its funds towards the charges connected therewith.)

The Board shall conduct a test audit of the accounts of the University including those of the institutions under it, and make an annual report, which shall be submitted to the Senate along with the annual accounts.

- (1) A NOTE OF DISSENT ON THE REPORT OF THE UNIVERSITY RE-ORGANISATION COMMITTEE, SIGNED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE 11TH OCTOBER 1928, BY MESSRS. B. VENKATANARAYAN, M.A., AND P. SAMPAT IYENGAR, M.A., MEMBERS OF THAT COMMITTEE.

While agreeing generally with the several proposals of the Re-organisation Committee, as embodied in its final report, we beg to dissent from it in so far as the constitution and powers of the Senate and of the University Council are concerned.

The Senate, according to the Re-organisation proposals, will have many of its present powers curtailed so that the new Senate will assume a passive condition in which it will be required merely to assent to or dissent from the proposals made by the other Bodies of the University. The full powers of criticism which the Senate is supposed to have, however, need not necessarily disturb the equanimity of the other Bodies.

The following are the powers which the Re-organised Senate will have lost: (1) An effective voice in matters financial (2) Control over matters academic, unless, there is disagreement between the Academic Council and the University Council (3) Initiative in framing Ordinances (4) Power to recommend the appointment of additional professors or other teachers and the removal of such members of the teaching staff (Ord. 4b), (5) The consideration of the modes of awarding, etc., of fellowships, scholarships and other prizes, etc. (Ord. 4c). (6) The discussion and declaration of an opinion on any matter whatsoever relating to the University (Ord. 4a).

We are strongly opposed to the deprivation of these powers of the Senate.

There is a marked change in the Constitution of the Senate, the re-organised Body beginning to acquire a democratic aspect. This, we consider, is not a wise step in our present condition. The inclusion of representative persons, such as merchants and other business men who are not likely to have the right kind of interest in matters academic, will be inimical to the growth of the University on right lines. The smooth working of the Senate, as at present constituted, will have to give place to turmoil and confusion owing to 'vested interests.' We are also afraid that if such democratisation were to be allowed, it may lead to communal and other representations in the Senate, as in the representative Assembly.

According to the Re-organisation proposals, the Senate will have no power of initiating Ordinances. They are left to the University Council and the Academic Council. Those initiated by the former will go before the Senate; only for assent or for dissent; but those initiated by the latter need not at all go before the Senate if the University Council accepts them. This is not all: The University Council will have power to set its Ordinances at work even before the Senate has had any knowledge of them. With regard to the Statutes even, some of which the Senate is supposed to have power to initiate, it shall have to consult the University Council and the Academic Council before taking any Statute into consideration. This means that the two Councils by sufficiently delaying to give their opinions on the proposed Statutes, may put off the passing of such Statutes. As regards the Senate's financial responsibilities they are reduced to a minimum. The Senate can pass resolutions on the Budget Estimates and send them to the University Council, which, however, has power to set all of them at naught, if it is so minded.

We are strongly of opinion that the Senate should be the final passing authority of all Statutes, and of all Ordinances in the University whether initiated by the one Council or the other. It should also be the final sanctioning authority in the University, of the Budget Estimates, previous to their being submitted to Government. If this is recognised, there is no necessity for a Committee of Reference.

The University Council, according to the re-organisation, will be the most powerful Body in the University. It will have almost full control over the purse, the other Bodies being entitled merely to give suggestions which the University Council may or may not accept.

As regards the constitution of the University Council, we are of opinion that the Principals of Colleges ought not to be its ex-officio members, for the reason that when they are present, the University Council will feel it delicate to discuss matters touching the affairs of these institutions.

BANGALORE,

- (2) A NOTE OF DISSENT ON THE REPORT OF THE RE-ORGANISATION COMMITTEE SIGNED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE 11TH OCTOBER 1928, BY MR. S. V. VENKATESWARAN, MEMBER OF THAT COMMITTEE.

I regret I have to differ on certain points of detail which, I believe, are of some importance.

1. The Senate should, in my opinion, include representatives of the Legislative Council and the Representative Assembly.

2. I would reduce the strength and the work of the University Council. I do not think it necessary or desirable that the Principals of Colleges should be ex-officio members of this body. The Council may be relieved of a great deal of routine work by vesting powers in the Vice-Chancellor as regards some of the administrative details, and in the Principals and the Councils of the Constituent Colleges in regard to some details of the academic work.

3. I would add 'Standing Committee of the Academic Council' 'College Councils' and 'Students' Representative Councils' to the Boards and Committees mentioned in IV (b) 10 (p. 4).

4. I consider it desirable that the teaching and other staff of the University [(Vide Section III (4)] should gradually cease to be Government servants, and that suitable Provident Fund Schemes (in lieu of pension) should be instituted by the University for the benefit of those in University Service.
